Drawer and Valuable Contents Taken from the Safe in a Business House in Broad Daylight.

The police were notified yesterday aftersoon of an unusually daring robbery, perpetrated about noon of the day before. During the dinner hour the safe in C. Nagel's furniture store on West Main street was opened by some thief who had been watching his opportunity, and a small drawer, containing several notes, one for $1,000, and other valuable business papers of use only to the owner taken away without detection. The safe is so located in the store that the drawer would be out of sight unless a person stooped to look into the safe, and the robbery was not discovered until the drawer and part of the contents were brought back to the store by a colored man named Gatewood, who stated he found it out on the her mother corrected her, went to Marion, O., Little Miams railroad, near the Foos & Evans | and hired out as tally-keeper at a railroad shops. The papers were scattered and blown gravel pit. Next worked on a Stark county about, but the thousand dollar note was recovered and returned. One or two other notes, for smaller amounts, are still missing, and payment has been stopped, so that the thief will get nothing at all for his trouble, as there was no money in the drawer or valua-Inventors to be held at Columbus, O., on the bles that could be converted. The cold chisel 22d day of April next, will doubtless be the used to pry the drawer out of its place was left

So far there is no trustworthy clue to the A Bace for the Train. The people who happened to be at the station when the 8:20 train pulled out for Cincinnati this morning, witnessed an unusual and interesting exhibition of pluck and speed Among the passengers who were on the train when it arrived here from the north were a young couple, who might have been brother and sister, for all we know to the contrary but whose appearance and actions did not betray any such fraternal relationship. At any rate the youth, who numbered some eighteen or twenty summers, descended from the cars and entered the Arcade restaurant to purchase some refreshments for the delectation of his fair charge. While he was standing at the counter vainly striving to decide in his mind the momentous question whether she would prefer a hard-boiled egg or a piece him in his intense preoccupation, pulled out from the depot. By the time be had decided in favor of the pie and some etceteras the car containing the forlorn damsel had reached the west side of Market street platform, still hanging on to his dearly bought Rev. Wm. H. Warren, pastor of the Con- pie. When he had progressed thus far he handicapped, so retraced his steps to the restaurant and exchanged the pie for his money again. By the time this was accomplished and he was again started in pursuit, the train was away beyond Center street. Nothing daunted, however, the youth struck a Maud > natural to suppose the hero of this adventure received a regular ovation from the passengers on the train. Heaned from the field of Local Politics There was a full and enthusiastic meeting ing of the Republican executive committee The best of feeling prevailed and an increase of confidence was manifested in the success of the whole ticket. Several items of routine husiness were transacted such as appointment of a printing committee to attend to printing of tickets, etc., being given full power to act. It was decided to hold a mass meeting at the wig wam Friday evening of next week, April 3, to be preceded, it found expedient, by a rally and parade of the old Blaine and Logan Plug Hat Brigade of last November. The sub-committee on conduct of the campaign-J. W. Parsons, P. M. Cartmell and W. M. The signs increase that the Constantine Jakesmith-O'Brien crowd are depending entirely on Boodle and Blatherskite to estry their point. Jacob January was, it is reported, offering for sale yesterday a note for $250 bearing the name of a prominent brewer, or ex-brewer, and the influence of blood-money is apparent wherever the Democratic workers nake their appearance. It is rumored that two or three colored men, who do not influence, under such circumstances, half a dozen votes basides their own, are "working" for Jacob January, and also an ex-official who is Republican only as there is "something in it," and who left h re under a cloud a few years ago. But every day adds to the solidity of the front presented by the Republican hosts, and all that is necessary is to get out the vote on election day. The "campaign of lies," it all one hears is true, isu't monopolized by the regular Democracy. Some who are loudest in talk about reform and morality, are not, it would seem, above making use of such weapons. C. R.
